

The richness of the mangroves were once harvested by prawn and fish farmers at Sungei Buloh. Since January 2002, Sungei Buloh has been protected as a nature reserve in recognition of the valuable biodiversity that it harbours. It is a member of the East Asian-Australasian Flyway Partnership and Singapore's first ASEAN Heritage Park.

The National Parks Board is committed to the conservation of this wetland through prudent management, research and education. A close encounter with nature awaits you...

The living classroom...

Set in a joha of mangroves, mudflats, ponds and secondary forest is a rare oasis of natural wonders and tranquility, home to unique plants and animals, as well as a wintering ground for migratory birds.

This trail guide is sponsored by HSBC under its Care-for-Nature programme, which is dedicated to help conserve and protect our living resources in our natural environment and at the same time to generate awareness among the public to do likewise.

Through our collaboration with the Sungei Buloh Wetland Reserve, HSBC hopes to promote greater awareness and appreciation of the importance of our wetlands in the community, in particular our school children.

Please call 6530 1845 if you wish to know more about the HSBC Care-for-Nature Programme.
